

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A single status register, capable of providing status for simultaneous read-while-write operation on a flash memory array is described. The status of the memory array is reported to the user based on two partitions. A microcontroller is used to traffic the status register to memory array communication.